COMING OF THE JEWS.

. Robert E Moore | Members of the Race Landed in America Along with Columbus.

> an Early Stage of Our History the Hebrews Have Done Much for the Progress of Our Great Country.

The convention of the American Jewish Historical society in this city has attracted fresh public interest in the American Jew, or, to speak with more national spirit, the Jewish-American. them all out. The voluminous labors of Solomon Wolf, of Washington, have only recently resulted in a triumphant demonstration | for your next wife. of the unfailing patriotism of the Jewish people of the new world. To quote only wears 41/2. (Retires hastily under from a critic of Mr. Wolf's work, "he has proved beyond cavil that from an early stage of our history down to the present day men of the Hebrew race and faith have been counted in the van of the country's progress, and in the fore front of its defense. They have performed an ample part in the conquest of our liberties and have fully shared in the struggles for the preservation of our institutions."

The coming of the Jew to the new world was very early, indeed. He came over with Columbus. Dr. Moses Kayser ling, the renowned savant of Buda-Pesth, has proved that the illustrious Genoese navigator had among his crew in the three vessels which sailed from Palos on August 3, 1492, members of the race of Abraham. One of these Jews, Rodrigo Sanchez, a relative of the royal treasurer of Arragonian Spain. accompanied the expedition as veedor, or superintendent, at the special request of Queen Isabella. The ship physician and surgeon were also Jews. Sanchez was the second to espy the land of the new world before the shout of "Tierra! Tierra!" Columbus had, in fact, studied the astronomical tables of the Jewish scholar Zacuto, and landing day, Friday, October 12, 1492, was-strangely enough-the Jewish day of great hosannas. It was like a prophecy of the new life which the oppressed Jews were to find in America, and a prediction of the constantly increasing factor which | to the man of her choice: they were to become in the new empire of the west.

The first definite Jewish settlement in America occurred in Brazil about 1548. The first within the United States took place in 1654, when 27 Jewish emigrants from Bahia, South America, arrived in New Amsterdam. The Dutch governor then was Peter Stuyvesant, who had something of the Jew baiter in his nature, so that future immigrants generally settled in Newport, R. I. Just when the first Jews came to Philadelphia is uncertain, but evidently some time before their settlement in the southern states (Savannah, Ga., 1733). Samuel Keimer, the printer of Beniamin Franklin's Pennsylvania Gazette, was most probably of Israelitish descent, for he kept the Jewish Sabbath and wore the long beard. Mickveh Israel (Hope of Israel), the first Jewish religious assembly in Pennsylvania, was founded in this city practically in 1747. Philadelphia can well be proud of the patriotic record of her Jewish citizenship in the past, as recorded preeminently in Henry Samuel Morais' comprehensive work on "The Jews of Philadelphia." They have been in their highest aspect typical Americans, true to the new American ideals. We need but remember such Jews as those whose names may still be seen in Independence hall subscribed to the nonimportation resolutions; to generous Haym Solomon, fit fellow worker with Robert Morris, who loaned over $350,000 to the cause of the revolution and was never re- | dead? paid, and to Col. Isaac Franks, an aid de camp to Gen. George Washington. Of civic dignitaries mention need only be made of Simon Gratz, one of the founders of the Pennsylvania academy of fine arts, and Judge Moses Levy, also a recorder of the city and a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania. bullet as it passed through a quarterinch sheet of glass. Just before the bullet touched the sheet the airwave cut a disk of glass about half an inch in diameter clean out. At the same time the glass around the hole was crushed into powder and driven back at an extremely rapid rate. The glass stuck to the bullet for a short time after it had passed through, the disk being driven out in front of the "bow-wave." In this experiment the waves caused by the vibrations of the glass were plainly shown. A photograph of the bullet after it had cleared the glass by nine inches showed the remainder of the glass intact, but when the bullet had proceeded another 16 inches the sheet of glass was seen to break and fall in fragments.—N.
